Abstract:

Speaking with confidence to others can be a crucial part of successfully establishing yourself in the business world as well as personal relations. If you don't present yourself with confidence, how can you ask others to believe you and trust you? Presenting yourself with confidence will definitely affect your promotion and your business.

Speaking confidently is a culture dependent technique that you can learn from the experts.

This seminar will show you how to talk using the right language, attitude, expression, gestures and body language for business, exchange of greetings, engaging in a conversation, etc. We will also show you the communication style, appropriate language, different expressions, and techniques of leaving a good impression.

After this seminar, you will feel comfortable working in a corporate environment and just be comfortable being part of your community. You will never have to worry about missing an opportunity due to your communication style.

What's even better is that you can bring your questions and interact with others as we learn together.

Speakers:

Carl Walsh

Carl Walsh is a Speaker, Trainer and Performance Coach. He has coached speakers of all types, from high school students to Hollywood personalities. He speaks to over 60 Realtor groups a year across the country and also speaks to various professional and trade groups on Leadership and Communications.

As a business professional, Carl spent 24 years in the world of Corporate Information Technology, with such organizations as The Walt Disney Company, C&R Clothiers and Smart & Final. He also served on advisory boards for industry leaders Lexmark and NCR. During that time, he participated in the evolution of desktop computing from simple gaming to industrial and management tools.

Before that, Carl spent twenty years in theatre as an actor and director after graduating from London's prestigious Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. He founded and managed one of Los Angeles's first union-sanctioned small theatres for professional actors, receiving critic's awards for both acting and directing.

He now joins these two careers by using techniques drawn from the theatre to allow his audiences to experience the principles he discusses.

Carl was featured in the August 2012 issue of Toastmaster Magazine for his innovative approach to using theatre games with non-actors.

Carl speaks to over 100 Professional Realtor Groups and Professional Associations every year across the country.

Vernon Budinger

Vernon Budinger has worked on Wall Street and in Investment Management for 25 years. He has spoken at the Federal Reserve of the United States and many other Investment Management venues. As an investment professional, he learned that communicating effectively and with confidence is often the key factor in making the sale or convincing your colleagues to accept your proposals. It can be even more important than the message itself.

A former alpine ski racer who was ranked #100 in the United States in the downhill event in his youth, Vernon turned his competitive spirit to the business world and investment management. He graduated Summa Cum Laude from the University of Hawaii.

After he launched his own investment management business, Vernon found that he needed to continue to improve his communications skills. He joined the Parson's Toastmaster's Club in the fall of 2013 and has since joined three more clubs. Toastmasters has driven him to take his speaking to a professional level and he is entering Toastmasters Accredited Speaker Program.
